

Assistive Document Redaction

Save time, reduce costs and improve compliance

The Challenge: Redaction Needs to Be Faster and Safer

Policing involves vast volumes of sensitive data - from Personally Identifiable Information (PII) and financial records to medical files and legal documents - and that volume is growing daily. Safeguarding this information is both a legal obligation & essential to public trust and effective policing.

Redaction is critical, but it doesn't need to be a bottleneck.

Up to 75% of document handling time
is spent redacting personal identifiers¹

68% of government employees say paperwork and manual processes slow down their productivity²
